

The consolidation of media ownership serves only the conglomerates that are monopolizing the airwaves. We need more, not less, diversity and local ownership to ensure real service to local communities and greater opportunities for diversity of content.